EYES AND TOES – WHAT'S THE CONNECTION?

We are all familiar with laser eye surgery and the impact that it has on the lives of those that receive it. Specialized lasers are now available to impact the feet and allow people to walk barefoot without being embarrassed with thick, yellow toenails.

The battle against toenail fungus has always been tough. Oral medications have potentially harmful side effect on the liver and kidneys. Lasers offer hope to those suffering with toenail fungus – an infection that an estimated 20 percent of Canadians or 6.6 million people have – that causes toenails to become thick, yellow and difficult to cut.

The fungus can spread it by shedding invisible spores when people walk barefoot in locker rooms or showers, across carpets, and even as they remove shoes and socks. The fungi get in under the overhanging edge of the nail and march from the edge of the nail all the way to the cuticle.
